James Ayers, Straumann Territory Manager

This program is designed to focus on all things implants. From the reasons as to why an implant would be the best option for a patient, to understanding all that goes into implant selection and understanding the restorative options, this is designed to discuss all aspects of a patient's implant journey. If clinicians want to bring their own case examples this can be a good forum to discuss case treatments and raise the overall confidence of the group in their treatment planning process. This course can also be done in segments, choosing to focus on one specific topic in each course so that the sessions build on each other and explore clinical pearls and evidence-based practices of implant dentistry.

OBJECTIVES

- Understanding basic concepts of surgical implant dentistry and implant restorations
- Identify potential surgical and restorative risk factors to avoid significant complications
- Learn fundamentals of Treatment planning, implementation of digital workflows
- Identify cases where hard and soft tissue management is necessary to achieve an ideal esthetic results
